THE RIVER BAILBOAD.

Explanation of the Cashler's Deficiency - Blind Bank Officials.

It is now understood that the Mechanics National Bank, of Newark, loses by its use made of the money by him is even thes have hardened of late, and there is reason for doubting whether the true explanation of the disposition of the funds has been made. At the same time nothing has come to light in Wall street which shows that the money was lost in stock exchange speculations. The fear that here would be a run on the saving banks. Farly vesterday morning a representative of the Evening Post met a gentleman reciate the important position who inquired if there was not a rumor of trouble in a Newark bank. Being told that such a report was current, he said, Simply: "Mechanics?" Yes. Then, said he, "its because it has been robbed by its cashier, and money has gone into stock speculations." On further inquiry, the gentleman said, that in a certain building not remote from the Mechanics Bank, which building was under control of the Cashier and some of his friends, a person had for some time occupied an office which suited him entirely, and which he was not disposed to vacate, when to his astonishment he was requested to surrender it, but be was offered finer and more attractive quarters in some building at a lower rent, and of course willingly exthat such a report was current, he said, Shall it go out to the country that the large and flourishing city of Wheeling will not foster and support a public library? No. I think there is too much public spirit in our midst for that.

If the project is properly set on foot and pushed, there are a sufficient number of intecenth century citizens here able and willing to assist in making the library a permanent institution. The long winter evenings are now upon us, and the want of a public library and reading room is sorely left by many.

[This refers to Gladration on this subject. (This refers to Gladstone's speech at Leeds on the 7th ut., when he said it was not for him, whose life was drawing to its inevitable close, to anticipate the long future they desired for him, but he would leave the affairs of the country in the hands of men in whom he had confidence]. The Standard's statements regarding the retirement of Gladstone are pronounced by the Pall Mall Gazetle as wholly groundless.

Berlin, November 1.—Corrected complete returns from 395 election districts show that of the successful candidates 44 are Conservatives, 22 Free Conservatives, 100 members of the Centre Party, 31 National Liberals, 24 Secessionists, 35 Progressists, 2 members of the Party of the People, 15 Poles and 17 Particularists and Protesters. The polities of four of the successful candidates are not defined. One hundred second ballots are necessary. rett Davis was the most fearless debator he ever saw, but not always considerate. Doolittle, of Wisconsin, was the finest omtor, and Fessenden, of Maine, was the ablest Senator bis State has produced. He never left a point unanswered, and was the readiest man in the body. John P. Hade was brilliant but not studious, and repeated himself. John Sherman was always prepared for action. Trumbull was eminent as a lawyer and debator. Governor Morton was an able leader, but extreme in his expressions; strength and earnestness were his peculiarities.

LONDON, November 1.—The International Arbitration and Peace Association passed a resolution to-day recording its satisfaction with the saluting of the English flag at Yorktown. Such an incident, the resolution says, is unparalleled in history, and must ever remain of deep international interest. It regards the apt as weighty and significant testimony to the external oblivion of all animosities resulting from the war for independence and as an emphatic expression of the brotherly love existing between England and America The Cincinnati Mitike Enden.
